I am an Artificial Intelligence bachelor's student at the University of Groningen with experience applying machine learning in healthcare and scientific research. I am passionate about developing AI systems that support people and advance science. I value interdisciplinary collaboration and I bring a positive, proactive mindset to my work.

WORK EXPERIENCE

SOFTWARE ENGINEERING INTERN, CompuGroup Medical

Feb 2026 - Present

I am currently working on a software for syntactic and semantic validation for YAML configuration files and version history and control for configurations of medical data.

AI & COMPUTING STUDENT, CERN - LHCb Collaboration

Feb 2026 - Present

I am currently working on improving tau decay detection at the LHCb using machine learning methods.

UMCG:

AI ENGINEERING INTERN, University Medical Center Groningen

Sept 2025 - Feb 2026

For the course AI Engineering Practical I and three fellow students developed and deployed a prediction model for the severity of side effects which lung cancer patients might face while undergoing immunotherapy. The data used for training the model consisted of clinical history of patients, blood test results as well as full body PET-CT scans of the patients. Uncertainty quantification was also implemented to combat overconfidence of the model.

Atos

STUDENT INTERN, Atos

Jun 2022 - Jul 2022

I and a team of fellow students developed an E-learning game in Python. We learned about application development and deployment through interactive sessions at Atos and got an insight into how IT services are provided to clients.
